

Sturgis Negro Students Enter Classes

By RONALD BUTLER

STURGIS, Ky. (AP) — Seven or eight Negro students entered high school here before classes began this morning.

Gen. J. J. Williams, guardian of the area, said he didn't know the exact number of Negroes who reported for school, but it was seven or eight.

The Negro youths were brought to school in automobiles. Although a crowd began to form early this morning, there were no incidents.

Across the street from Sturgis High School, 55 State Police cars were parked.

At nearby Clay, where two Negro children were kept from entering the school, the crowd numbered 150 to 200 people, the majority of the children refused to enter the school.

There was nothing to say, Mrs. James Gordon told reporters.

Eight of the Negro children, numbering about 600 men, were in the area yesterday with additional men expected today.

Two of the nine Negro students, who had been expelled from Sturgis High School, were now enrolled at Dunbar High School in Morganfield, Ky.

The integration conflict began at Sturgis Aug. 21 when nine Negro students entered the school. The only one in this small town, of about 5,000 population, on the edge of county, 20, turned the students away.

National Guardsmen moved in last night and on Thursday the Negro students were escorted to the school by the Guardsmen. The Negro students failed to enter the school, but the Guardsmen reported reports of "economic pressure" the students said.

The students said they were not being forced to leave their jobs if the integration of the school.

THE children, as could be expected, cold, hungry, terror-stricken, threw up. Their mother, already at the breaking point, remembered dimly something she had read many months before. The words flashed to her mind.

"...and while such radiation from an atomic explosion cannot be detected by the usual senses, the exposed individual will show signs of illness, become afflicted with nausea, and frequently vomit."

"My children!" she shrieked. "They've got radiation sickness! They're going to die from radiation poisoning! My children!"

Sobbing hysterically she grasped the youngsters to her body. Nauseated, cold, frightened, they stared unbelievably at their mother. They cried in wailing, piercing screams.

The guard flitted through the group with lightning speed. "Radiation sickness! They're going to die from radiation poisoning! My children!"

A man stood up, uncontrollably shouting. "Radiation! We'll die if we stay here! We'll die if we stay here! We'll die if we stay here!"

One woman screaming from the back of the crowd, she staggered to his feet and ran from the area. Without any side roads on which to dispose the vehicles the police, screaming indignation, took possession of the auto keys.

Cyprus Rebels Make Thrust at French

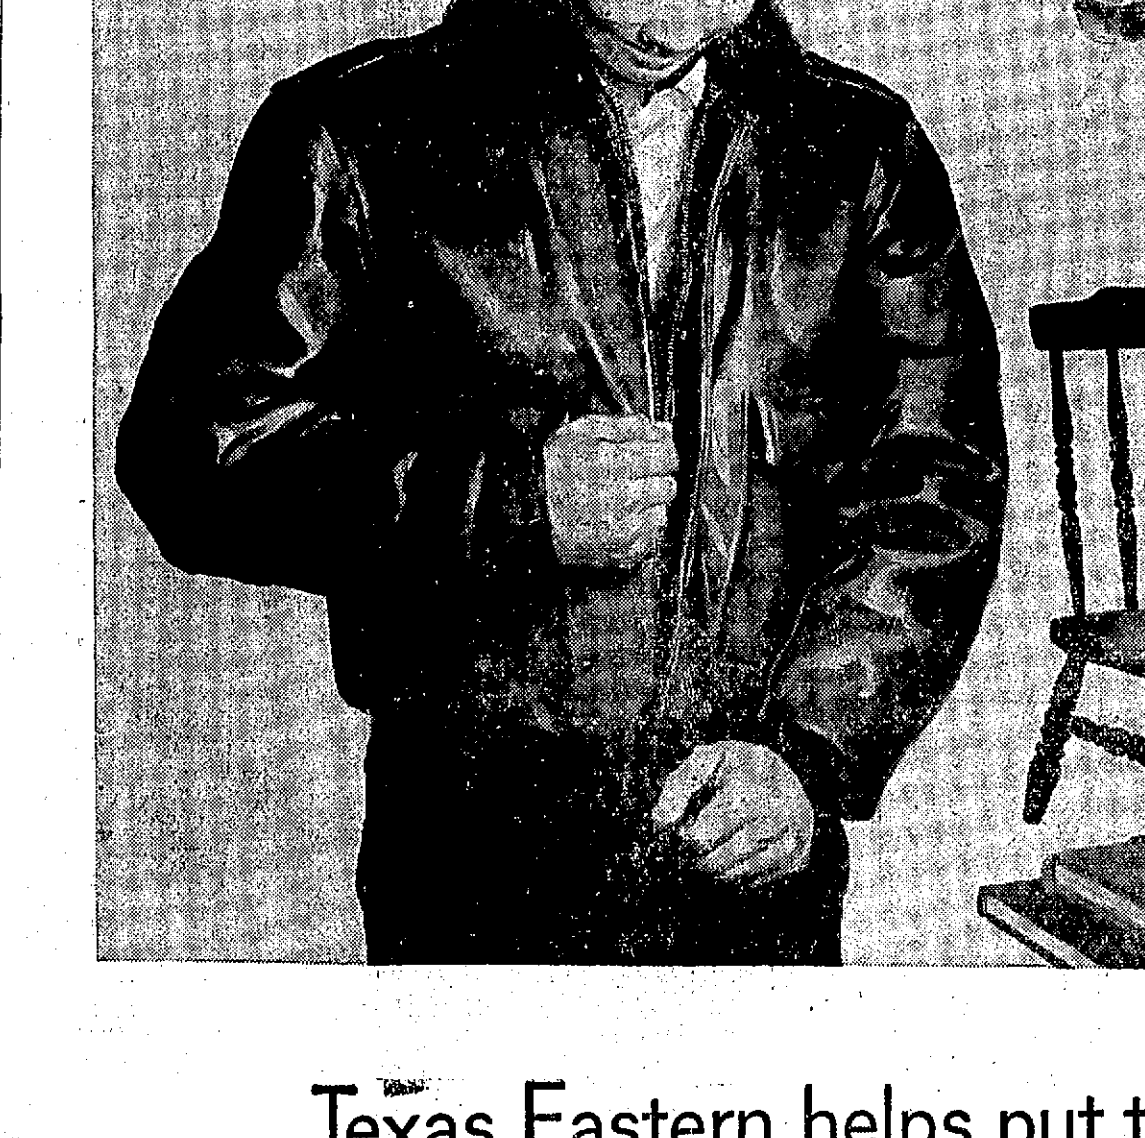

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Rebels made their first attack yesterday on French troops of Cyprus, according to French officials. The rebels, who are fighting for the independence of the island, attacked the French troops in the north coast port of Famagusta.

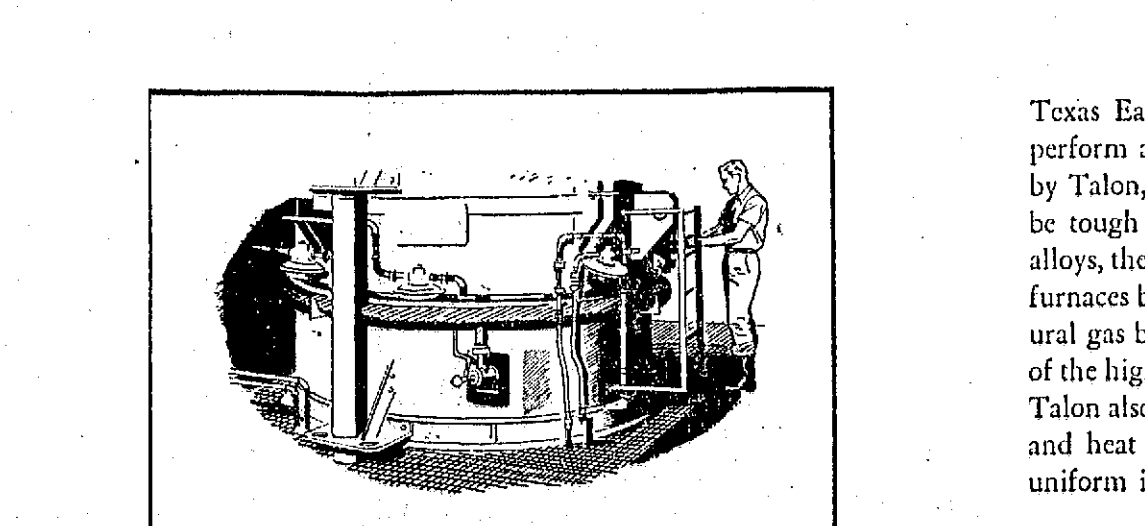

The Greek Cypriot rebels were in a coffee shop in Ayios Nikolaos, a southwestern village. Four British soldiers were wounded by a bomb blast on a street. A bomb was detonated in a tree as the truck was passing. A British serviceman's beach near Famagusta was hit by a bomb. The bomb was thrown from a British army vehicle near Kyrenia on the north coast. Bombs were thrown at other vehicles at Kyrenia, eight miles northwest of Nicosia. A bomb was found and disposed of.

Big 3 Join West Users Group to Operate Suez

By WILLIAM SEXTON

LONDON (UP) — Prime Minister Clement Attlee today announced that the United States, France and Britain are joining in a "users association" to take over operation of the Suez Canal.

The association to be formed "without delay" would employ pilots, coordinate canal traffic, collect canal tolls and act as a voluntary association for the exercise of rights of canal users.

Eden said the "users association" would be formed before the House of Commons said.

The plan was the West's harsh answer to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's demand that the canal be nationalized.

The plan previously approved by 18 nations at the London conference two and a half weeks ago.

Eden said that should Egypt reject the "users association" he then will be considered to have rejected the plan.

The British government has no intention of relaxing its military precautions in the canal area.

This organization will be provisional in character but we hope it will lead to a permanent agreement," Eden told an emergency session of Parliament.

The United States sent a secret note to Eden shortly before he left London to tell the Egyptian government that the British government has no intention of relaxing its military precautions in the canal area.

This organization will be provisional in character but we hope it will lead to a permanent agreement," Eden told an emergency session of Parliament.

Co-ops Say Private Power Is a Giveaway

HOT SPRINGS, (AP) — Public power advocates yesterday accused Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss of trying "to give away this priceless power treasure to the private power companies."

In a resolution adopted by the Region 8 convention of the National Electric Cooperative Association here, Strauss was criticized for failing to put the program and "proceeding to hand over this priceless power treasure to the private power companies."

The convention called for legislation to speed up development and provide a yardstick on the cost of atomic power.

Another resolution endorsed a bill sponsored by Rep. Trimble (D-Ark.) calling for conservation of flood control, recreational, industrial and agricultural power.

Ike's Curocity Finally Wins

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's curioity apparently got the better of him.

Every time Sarah McCloud, reporter for a number of Southwest newspapers, asks a question at his news conferences she identifies herself as the correspondent of one of the papers she represents.

She did again yesterday.

"You know, before I answer you questions, will you tell me one?" Mr. Eisenhower asked her.

Miss McCloud: "Yes, sir."

The President: "Do you get tired every week and join another paper the next week?"

While other reporters were convulsed with laughter, Miss McCloud explained with a blush that she "tried to give representation to all my papers."

"I think that is very fair," the president said with an understanding smile.

Two Tigrisses Kill Their Mate

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two tigrisses will live out their time at Cincinnati Zoo in splendor after slaughtering their mate yesterday in a savage battle.

The zoo veterinarian, Dr. B. W. Bernard, said the jungle cat "killed" his mate in a "savage" battle.

"If we put another male in there now, the tigrisses would not fight," he said.

Zoo officials said there was no way of knowing what caused the fight.

Keepers said the attack on 5-year-old Rajah was apparently a surprise, with one female going to the aid of the other.

The three had been together since they were kittens and never had trouble with each other before, even at feeding time.

Washington (UP)—Senate investigators revealed today that federal agents are looking for a $200,000 "educational" campaign which the oil industry launched for the purpose of influencing the outcome of the election. The purpose of the inquiry, they said, is to find out whether oil companies could legally deduct the contributions they made to the drive from their income taxes.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-N.J.) made the disclosure during a public hearing of the Senate subcommittee on the oil industry, which was held in the Senate chamber today.

He read portions of a letter from the Internal Revenue Commissioner, C. Gordon Dick, who said federal agents are investigating the oil industry's "educational" campaign.

The educational campaign was said to be the largest of its kind in the history of the industry, and it was financed by major oil companies. The campaign was said to be a "public relations" program, and it was said to be a "public relations" program, and it was said to be a "public relations" program.

Wall Street Honors Arkansas Girl

NEW YORK (AP)—A former Jonesboro, Ark., girl who bought yesterday as the purchaser of a one-millionth share of stock sold under the monthly investment plan.

Miss Christine Virginia Stuck, discharging officer at the American embassy in Moscow, began her investment program Jan. 4, 1953, with monthly $80 payments toward purchase of Dow Chemical stock.

The monthly investment plan was set up to allow the purchase of securities on a budget basis. Buyers may take as little as $50 worth of stock every three months.

Miss Stuck says, "It's not too difficult to save money" in Moscow.

Oil Education Fund Probed by Committee

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators revealed today that federal agents are looking for a $2,000,000 "educational" campaign which the oil industry launched for the purpose of influencing the purpose of the inquiry, they said, is to find out whether oil companies could legally deduct the contributions they made to the drive from their income taxes.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-N.J.) made the disclosure during a public hearing of the Senate subcommittee on the oil industry, which was held yesterday.

He read portions of a letter from the Internal Revenue Commission, dated August 10, 1954, which was addressed to the oil industry.

The letter stated that the commission was investigating the oil industry's "educational" campaign.

The commission said that it was concerned that the campaign was being financed by major oil companies, and that the campaign was being conducted in a manner which was designed to influence the purpose of the inquiry.

Constitution Party Plans Convention

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Plans have been announced for the state convention of the Constitution Party.

Dr. George P. Branscum, temporary chairman of the party said yesterday that the convention would be held at the Little Rock Hotel, September 16.

Branscum said he expects the state party to support the Constitution party's presidential nominee, T. Coleman Andrews.

Andrews, a former international revenue commissioner for the Eisenhower administration, was nominated at the party's national convention in Ft. Worth, Tex., last month.

State Party Chairman Branscum said the constitution party hopes to prevent either of the major parties from receiving a majority of the electoral votes and to elect a president who will represent the interests of the people.

Branscum said the party is interested in the election of a president who will represent the interests of the people.

Remember how clumsy your palm felt in your mother's palm and all the questions you asked along the way.

"Mama, if you do something bad, do they really send you to a dark classroom all by yourself and close all the doors?"

"Mama, what if you do something bad but don't know how to do it? Do they still make you hold out your hand and hit it with a ruler?"

"Mama—"

"Oh, my dear child, we'll never get there if you keep asking questions."

Remember how awesome the teacher looked, and how, as she bent down to greet you, you could count tiny wrinkle lines around her warm kindly eyes. She seemed 1,000 years old, and she may have been all of that.

Remember the blind panic you felt when your mother went out the door and you stood there, silent amid the flock of other silent lonely children.

But soon the strangeness began to wear off as the teacher started to talk to you. You found out that she was just a woman, like your mother, and that she was just a woman, like your mother, and that she was just a woman, like your mother.

These Are Friends? Perfect Housekeeper Wavering Financier

Dear Dorothy Dix: I need professional help. My friends are a wide range of 45, and I need a small business, own my home and car. I haven't been easy to maintain friends though, two years of my widowhood, but being in business helped me "put up a roof."

I haven't found many men my own age who are single, but occasionally I have a date for dinner or a concert. Every time one of my recalled friends hears of such a date, she's sure to say, "He's not interested in you, but in your money."

Can't they realize how lonely one can get watching TV or reading a book? I don't know if anyone can get an awful lot of damage to the morale I've built up with so much effort.

DELEADE

Dear Adelaide: You are to be pitied for the cause which you face; you are certainly deserving better friends. The next time one of them makes a comment along the lines you mention, you might say, "Are you too, interested in my money, or what I can do for you?"

NEW YORK (AP)—A former Jonesboro, Ark., girl who bought yesterday as the purchaser of a one-millionth share of stock sold under the monthly investment plan.

Miss Christine Virginia Stuck, discharging officer at the American embassy in Moscow, began her investment program Jan. 4, 1953, with monthly $80 payments toward purchase of Dow Chemical stock.

The monthly investment plan was set up to allow the purchase of securities on a budget basis. Buyers may take as little as $50 worth of stock every three months.

Miss Stuck says: "It's not too difficult to save money" in Moscow.

Two Tiggeres Kill Their Mate

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two tiggeres will live out their time at Cincinnati Zoo in splendor after murdering their mate yesterday in a savage battle.

The zoo veterinarian, Dr. B. W. Bernard, said the jungle cat, named "Tigger," was killed by "Tiggeress," a female.

"If we put another male in there now, the tiggeres would not fight."

Zoo officials said there was no way of knowing what caused the fight.

Keepers said the attack on 5-year-old Rajah was apparently a surprise with one female going to the aid of the other.

The three had been together since they were kittens and never had trouble with each other before, even at feeding time.

Two Tiggeres Kill Their Mate

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two tiggeres will live out their time at Cincinnati Zoo in splendor after murdering their mate yesterday in a savage battle.

The zoo veterinarian, Dr. B. W. Bernard, said the jungle cat, named "Tigger," was killed by "Tiggeress," a female.

"If we put another male in there now, the tiggeres would not fight."

Zoo officials said there was no way of knowing what caused the fight.

Keepers said the attack on 5-year-old Rajah was apparently a surprise with one female going to the aid of the other.

The three had been together since they were kittens and never had trouble with each other before, even at feeding time.

Oil Education Fund Probed by Committee

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators revealed today that federal agents are looking for a $2,000,000 "educational" campaign which the oil industry launched for oil use in schools.

The purpose of the inquiry, they said, is to find out whether oil companies could legally deduct the contributions they made to the drive from their income taxes.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-N.J.) made the disclosure during a public hearing of the Senate subcommittee on education.

He read portions of a letter from the Internal Revenue Commission to Gordon Dick who said federal agents are investigating the oil industry's "educational" campaign.

The educational campaign was organized for the purpose of raising money for the construction of new schools and for the purchase of new school equipment.

The campaign was financed by major oil companies, including Standard Oil, Esso, and Gulf.

The campaign was organized by the American Petroleum Institute.

The campaign was intended to raise money for the construction of new schools and for the purchase of new school equipment.

These Are Friends? Perfect Housekeeper Wavering Fiancee

Dear Dorothy Dix: I need professional help. My friends are a wide variety of people. I have a small business, own my home and car. I haven't been easy to maintain friends though, two years of my widowhood, but being in business helped me "put up a roof."

I haven't found many men who are single, but occasionally I have a date for dinner or a concert. Every time one of my recalled friends hears of such a date, she's sure to say, "He's not interested in you, but in your money."

Can't they realize how lonely one can get watching TV or reading the paper and how much one needs people to get an awful lot of damage to the morale I've built up with so much effort.

DEAR DOROTHY: You are to be pitied for the cause which you which you face life, you certainly deserve better friends. The next time one of them makes a comment along the lines you mention, you might say, "Are you too, interested in my money, or what I can do for you?"

Widows must be wary, especially if they are in the line of business. It is not fair to consider them legitimate business expenses. You should carefully, even if it means lonely evenings for a few more months, until you can find a way to get man or woman worthy of the title "friend."

ing into an uncharted world. Most children didn't attend nursery schools. Kindergarten was a strange new continent full of rumors and terrors and uncertain lights.

Remember how clumsy your palm felt in your mother's palm and all the questions you asked along the way.

"Mama, if you do something bad, do they really send you to a dark classroom all by yourself and close all the doors?"

"Mama, what if you do something bad but don't know Mrs. Boyle when you do it. Do they still make you hold out your hand and hit it with a ruler?"

"Mama—"

"Oh, my dear child, we'll never get there if you keep asking questions."

Remember how awesome the teacher looked, and how, as she bent down to greet you, you could count tiny wrinkle grooves in her warm kindly eyes. She seemed 1,000 years old, and she may have been all of that.

Remember the blind panic you felt when your mother went out the door and you stood there, silent amid the flock of other silent lonely children.

But soon the strangeness began to wear off as the teacher started to game. By the time your mother came to take you home, you had made your first friend from the class. You had learned of another world outside the walls of home, a world full of wonderful adventures and shining excitement.

So many things to do. Every day something new-drawing, writing, sewing, and so on. You were learning to gallop to music discovering the magic realm of poetry by listening to it. Teacher read "Little Blue Boy," making your first friend, a friend in love with your first red-haired girl.

What other year goes by so swiftly. In what other year does the mind leap so far as it does in kindergarten. None. If I had my way, good kindergarten teachers would get the same pay as top college professors. They are more important guides on the royal road to learning.

My wife, Frances, who gets a bit fed up with hearing me ramble on like this, sometimes says: "You know, Rover, I think you're eternally young the less fluffy."

Perhaps you could transfer Mother's attention to some other home, where her spirit of helpfulness would be appreciated.

Louisiana Claims Right in Oil Suit

WASHINGTON (UP)—The state of Louisiana charged yesterday that the federal government does not have a right to eliminate it as a party to the offshore oil suit.

State Attorney General P. F. Gremillion said the government has waived whatever right it had to make such a move.

Attorney General Herbert Brown said the state had failed to proceed in the case with the United States as the only party. He claimed that the state had failed to answer the government's complaint in the allotted time.

Instead, Louisiana had moved to have the complaint dismissed.

The suit was started by the Justice Department in an effort to get a ruling on whether the state or the federal government owns some 800,000 acres of oil-rich submerged land in the Gulf of Mexico.

Two Tigeresses Kill Their Mate

CINCINNATI (UP)—Two tigeresses will live out their time at Cincinnati Zoo in splendor after mauling to death their male mate in a savage battle yesterday.

The zoo veterinarian, Dr. B. W. Bernard, said the jungle cat named "Tiger" was mauling "Tigeress" to death when he was brought to the zoo.

"If we put another male in there now, the tigeresses would attack him."

Zoo officials said there was no way of knowing what caused the fight.

Keepers said the attack on 5-year-old Rajah was apparently a surprise, with one female going for the throat of the other.

The three had been together since they were kittens and never had trouble with each other before, even at feeding time.

Disney's New Adventure on Revolution

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Watch out, Woody, you're being outdone by the new Disney production, "The Great Escape." The new picture, which is being shown in theaters all over the country, is a story of a group of prisoners who escape from a prison camp in Germany during the second world war. The picture is a masterpiece of storytelling and is a must-see for all moviegoers. The picture is a masterpiece of storytelling and is a must-see for all moviegoers. CHAPTER XXVII
Ward Byrdos called to Burke. "Hey, Ed. There's a private call for us from Zone." Burke ran to the police car, listened with Byrdos to the message crackling over the speaker. "Burke, this is an An to tell you that the medical convey is coming into the city on 22. They've got six trucks loaded with fresh blood, plus two busloads of medical people. AC P Four doesn't have any police escort available, so you'll have to pick them up. You're to stay with the convey all the way through to Roosevelt Medical Center. We'll try to have some cars meet you on the way."

After all, that was the pattern which both Dave Crockett and "Tommy" Tremain had followed. The first part of "Johnny Tremain" was a story of a shipwrecked man who was rescued by a group of sailors. The second part of the story was a story of a man who was rescued by a group of sailors. The second part of the story was a story of a man who was rescued by a group of sailors.

hail as Burke ran up to the cab. He climbed to the running board. "We've been ordered to lead you to Roosevelt Hospital," he told the driver. "A crowd of people is waiting outside the hospital to come out of the city on the highway. They're waiting for you. They're waiting for you. They're waiting for you."

Burke returned to the police car and climbed in beside Byrdos. The officer waved his arm for the signal to move and started down the highway. Burke and Byrdos were in the car, signaling the convey to stop. "Look at that, will you?" he muttered. The highway ahead of him was lined with people. They were waiting for you. They were waiting for you. They were waiting for you."

Burke called zone headquarters, and Byrdos called the city line. "Tony," Burke told him, "the crowd is pouring out the highway from the hospital. We've got to get out of there. We've got to get out of there. We've got to get out of there."

Pilot Parachutes From Jet Safely

PINE BLUFF (AP) — The pilot of a jet trainer plane was found early today at a farmhouse about 15 miles southeast of here near where he had parachuted safely after his plane crashed. The pilot was found by a farmer who called the police. The pilot was found by a farmer who called the police. The pilot was found by a farmer who called the police.

Republicans to Name Candidates

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Republicans will meet here next week to name candidates for the 1956 congressional elections. The meeting will be held at the Hotel Clinton. The meeting will be held at the Hotel Clinton. The meeting will be held at the Hotel Clinton.

The second meeting of the convention was set for Monday by special meeting of the republican State Committee yesterday. Burke ran up to the cab. He climbed to the running board. "We've been ordered to lead you to Roosevelt Hospital," he told the driver. "A crowd of people is waiting outside the hospital to come out of the city on the highway. They're waiting for you. They're waiting for you. They're waiting for you."

Another mile. The headlights stabbed through the darkness, illuminating the highway. Burke and Byrdos were in the car, signaling the convey to stop. "Look at that, will you?" he muttered. The highway ahead of him was lined with people. They were waiting for you. They were waiting for you. They were waiting for you."

Burke called zone headquarters, and Byrdos called the city line. "Tony," Burke told him, "the crowd is pouring out the highway from the hospital. We've got to get out of there. We've got to get out of there. We've got to get out of there."
